In 2016 your supreme leader & the #TrumpCrimeFamily conspired with Russians to steal our election & undermine Democracy - now we are subjected to watching the Shi'ite show “The Apparrel- The White House White Supremacist” every damn day. People who work for & defend traitors suck 😂.

Since I'm not Christian perhaps I don't understand how a good one is someone who not only insults woman but also assaults them, is a racist & white supreme, lies constantly, insults & attacks people, his businesses cheat & commit fraud, has done very suspicious deals & is a bad man.

So as long as the hypocrite Republican douchbags get their tax cuts right wing judges & gut every protection for everyone in America who isn't an old white rich Christian man having a lying unhinged corrupt ignorant racist traitor putus is just fine with them.

They also seized over 3000 children & you incompetent lying assholes had no intentions or plans to return them to their parents. Your fascist regime doesn't consider people who are not white human beings which makes you an inhuman & inhumane cretin 😂.

It's way more complicated than that. For purposes of discussion of most racist systems in the US, we're white. With a lot of caveats, sure, but none of these racial categories is stable or coherent, so big whoop.

It's fair to say that white people in the US are invested in white supremacy. That means many powerful white people in mainstream political parties might wink at gross racism to get what they want. Not expecting anyone.

America has a white person problem. The old white people are on the whole, racist and they vote. The younger white people are, on the whole, apathetic and do not vote. How do we tackle this? Do we really have to wait for demographic change?

I mean, that’s what much of this is about — there’s more and more non-white people being born, and eventually white people will only be (gasp) a plurality in the U.S. instead of the majority. Some are scared shitless that they’re gonna be subjected to the same treatment.

10:18 AM - 1/18 - Twitter for iPhone

That’s really what this is about, after all... A bunch of scared racist white people saw the demographic trend writing on the wall and freaked the fuck out. They can’t accept it so they’re trying to stop it by cutting off immigration, suppressing the vote, etc etc etc...

8:00 AM - 1/18 - Twitter for iPhone

The wall, in an actual, physical, literal—well sense may never exist. I doubt sincerely that the wall has ever really existed in an actual, physical, literal—well sense. The “wall” is the white supremacy and hate the GOP enforces, emboldens, and preaches every single day.

Photo courtesy of Tiny Resister™, who captured me yesterday, mid-yelling, “COME ON.” Do better, white people. Just because it does not affect you personally does not get to be ignorant and indifferent. That’s the whole point. You should speak up because you can.

They’re emboldened. And I do believe they’re outnumbered. But as long as Nice White People don’t call this out as the nazi bullshit it is, white silence is violence. “If you are neutral in situations of injustice, you have chosen the side of the oppressor.”—Desmond Tutu

We are in a war between those who choose to be human and those who choose to be white. In order to effectively stamp out fascism, we must take on all hierarchies at once. White supremacy cannot be disentangled from patriarchy and class oppression.

It’s been only a matter of years that I’ve understood that so-called “color-blindness” is its own sort of racism in refusing to consider the experiences of POC as legitimately different from mine. I was, at the very least, passively complicit in reinforcing white supremacy.

Vote for me because @davidfrum is wrong and a 50% cut in legal immigration would be a terrible idea—sharply cutting the incomes of hundreds of thousands of foreigners in order to slight cut the incomes of most natives for no good reason.

Here is Pew on Americans’ political priorities. A crackdown on immigration will make many of these main problems worse, while smart expansions of immigration could be a big help with several of them. Neoliberal @netLiberal

Oh look, Michigan AG Dana Nessel—with help from the SPLC—is going to ‘document incidents of hate & bias that don’t rise to the level of criminal or civil infractions.’ Hmmm, I wonder who would want to monitor & silence constitutionally protected speech? Finley: AG Nessel puts civil liberties at risk

NOLAN FINLEY | THE DETROIT NEWS
10:29 p.m. EST Mar. 9, 2019

Combating hate crimes is a worthy endeavor. But the new campaign announced by Attorney General Dana Nessel has the real potential to morph into thought policing.
Michigan Department of Civil rights, say they will create a process to document incidents of hate and bias that don’t rise to the level of criminal or civil infractions.

That could translate to speech or expressions of opinion that some may find offensive, but are protected by the First Amendment. Bias is protected by the Constitution until it infringes on the rights and freedoms of others, and hate is often in the eye of the beholder.

If what Nessel and Arbulu are targeting are words, thoughts and opinions, this could easily become a weapon to shut down groups they find abhorrent, but are operating within the law.

That's not the charge of their offices.

There's reason to worry that's the direction this will take.

Nessel says she'll start her surveillance with the 31 Michigan organizations that appear on the Southern Poverty Legal Center's list of hate groups.

But the SPLC list is widely discredited as a political tool used to harass and discredit conservative groups.

Spots on the list are earned not necessarily through hateful actions, but for expression of opinions on social issues that don't adhere to left-wing ideology.

Groups have been singled out as hateful by the SPLC for opposing gay marriage, abortion and immigration.

The SPLC is extremely reckless in its selection of groups to include on the hit list.

Last summer it had to pay out more than $3 million to settle a suit filed by a former radical Islamist who was listed as "anti-Muslim" for speaking out against extremism.

One of the Michigan organizations on the SPLC list, Church Militant/St. Michael's Media in Ferndale, is there because it advocates strict Catholic teachings on marriage and is outspoken in its opposition to abortion.

Nessel and Arbulu may not agree, and may find those positions personally repugnant, but the First Amendment guarantees Church Militant the right to express itself on gay marriage and other social issues, and to do so vigorously.

There's no accusation that the Catholic group has ever broken the law, or committed an act of violence against those whose lifestyles it rejects. Subjecting it to a state interrogation would amount to harassing its members for their religious beliefs.

Nessel and Arbulu say they intend to compile and maintain a data base on the groups it identifies as being hate-motivated. Presumably, that means documenting their activities and membership.

Again, that's troublesome in its potential to violate the right to free association, as well as to speech and religion. It could easily become an enemies list to punish political opposition and dissent.

The attorney general should absolutely go after those who violate the state's hate crime laws, and protect the victims of hate.

But the effort she has outlined is risky. Holding opinions that are unpopular, and even widely offensive, does not meet the definition of a hate crime.

Nessel and Arbulu should stand down. In their zeal to rid Michigan of hate, the risk is too great that they will end up trampling the Constitution.

Yes that's bc WASP ethnicity reads as ethnically white whereas others within racial whiteness read as something else. Italians, Slavs, Greeks, etc. would likely ethnically identify with those categories and not "white". Race is made up, and that's why the lines are blurred.

Rather than express the usual ritual contrition, how about this: I’m on television every weeknight live for an hour. If you want to know what I think, you can watch. Hi @TeamYouTube I transcribed JLP's video about us. He encourages his supporters to harass us, calls us "evil", "children of the lie" "the devil" and needlessly points out that my colleague and I are Jewish. He also puts my colleague's twitter handle and picture on screen.

As a white person, I've spent a lot of my life unknowingly being racist. I also now have to actively combat my racist tendencies, I still have blind spots. It takes work. I was raised to be racist - all white people are, as our society is racist - hell, I had to undo my misogyny.

Jewish people have many views of Palestinians. Some are very supportive, some are not. It's very complicated because we are both killing each other; rather than in America where white people are just killing Black people.

I'm calling in ignorant white people to face their white fragility and bias by hearing one of their own call them out on it. This piece was made in response to @BLYONGX saying there should be more white voices speaking out on Jewish white fragility which I compared to herpes.

Not denying that racism is real and inflicted by white people on Black people. You have a right to be mad. But Jewish people are some of the most oppressed white people out there, not the ones with the power.

Being mobbed by a group of white people and having the police called on you is fatal for many black men in America. This is a reality.

Cool. I disavow all the hate white America produced. As Jewish and queer the person he calls a termite and demonizes on the daily, it is my call.

No. Until this THING is out of office you are still a white privileged straight woman that will always have the choice to stop caring because the risk is lower for you. Solidarity 101: it is very rarely about you so don’t make it about you. Fellow white people, let’s do better.

45 will kill us all @crymeatriver6666

So, fellow white people, stop putting other people in your shoes. It is not a fair comparison. Recognize your privilege, and more, actively seek to dismantle the systems of oppression that are currently in place and that manufacture the privilege that we enjoy and don’t deserve.

As white people it is imperative that we constantly remind ourselves that our experience in public spaces is not everyone’s experience. This social work was built to accommodate us and our needs, mainly white males.

I think a lot lately about how white people who think of themselves as anti-racist -- like me -- love talking about white privilege while failing to acknowledge our own white fragility. That’s ironic because the ability to differentiate the two is the epitome white privilege.

The inability of us, white straight men, to understand that our voice is not welcome in some conversations is integral to so many problems.

It's very telling that people will lionise a white man who did so much to hurt marginalised folks of many communities, but there is no way they would be doing this if they were not white. My fellow whites, don't trample on marginalised folks real pain here. At least acknowledge it.

I genuinely wish more straight people would take other straight people to task for their homophobic bullshit. In the same way that men need to take other men to task for their misogyny & white people need to take other white people to task for their racism. That's being an ally.

There's no such thing as "reverse racism" or racism against white people because the world is still very much under white supremacist rule. In order to dismantle this we need to be openly critical of it, if you are white this is your duty too.

Seriously tho how are white people this oblivious to racism? I cannot understand it. And I am white. This is some fucked up shit.

White privilege is it taking 100 years to realise Trump's racist a$$ because he doesn't use the words. We need to understand this. If you know the words you know what the impact is.

Well it doesn't say all & there is a huge problem with racism/white supremacy among white folks & as a white person myself I feel it's my duty to criticise them. It's not helpful to say "not all white people", just like it's not helpful for men to say "not all men".

Less white people in Australian politics pls! They're just openly enforcing White Australia policies.

It is our duty as white folks to acknowledge this shit, as POC have been suffering for fucking centuries & continue to due to white supremacy. Acknowledging the abuse & damage is a big necessary part of healing & changing.

It's kind of poetic that white people decided their way of life was the only correct way & we have now destroyed the planet with it.

Replying to @kittenspears @yourtotem I'm fucking Jewish :P we will put your neuroses to shame! So much guilt!

GOP became a worse political party last night. Shunned in moderate suburbs but strongly supported w/frankly white identity pitch+eater suppression in many other areas +races, President+remaining GOP core voters+polis may see proof of concept for how they want to do politics.

Sad for all the white people with driving issues who are being inconvenienced by the need to maintain plausible deniability while hindering non-white citizens' efforts to vote....

Until Republicans earn at least (say) 20% of their votes from racial/ethnic/religious minorities, I don't believe anyone should vote for any GOP House, Senate, or Presidential candidate. White Christian identity politics is poisoning American politics+ brought us President Trump.

Somewhere in range of 30–40% of gop primary voters are strongly responsive to white (+Christian) identity politics contrary to core values of a multi-racial+religiously diverse pluralist democracy. That’s a real dilemma for the party and for the country.

Conservative columnist says he's changed his mind on reparations in New York Times piece

In a piece titled The Case for Reparations, columnist David Brooks made an emphatic argument for reparations and said he had been convinced by his observations five years after reading Ta-Nehisi's piece on the subject. Brooks said that because the US racial divide was "born out of sin," not strictly class, the policy was even more necessary to right the injustice of slavery.

Annual Survey of American Law honors Chief Judge Robert Katzmann

Many of Katzmann's colleagues spoke of his work to improve the experience of immigrants in the US court system. Nancy Morawetz, a Professor of Clinical Law at NYU, said she was moved in particular by Katzmann's choice to focus on the difficulties faced by unrepresented immigrants in his 2007 Orion E. Marden Lecture for the New York City Bar Association.

"Those of us that work on immigration cases were deeply grateful that Judge Katzmann had chosen to speak on this topic," Morawetz said. "And what happened next was really remarkable."

That next step was the formation of the Katzmann Study Group on Immigrant Representation in 2010. Katzmann brought together 50 volunteers from law firms, nonprofit organizations, immigration groups, bar associations, law schools, and governments to quantify current immigrant representation. The two-year research project led by the group found that 60 percent of detained immigrants in New York City do not have counsel by the time their cases are completed, and of this group only 3 percent have successful court outcomes.

The research led to an expansion of the New York Immigration Family Unity Project, a program funded by New York City government that now ensures that low-income non-citizens facing deportation in New York City have free legal representation.

Peter L. Markowitz, Professor of Law at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, praised another Katzmann initiative, The Immigrant Justice Corps. A fellowship program that Katzmann founded in 2014, the Corps provides recent law graduates with additional training in immigration law and then pairs them with nonprofit organizations to provide legal services to low-income immigrants.

According to Markowitz, the Corps has achieved a successful outcome in 93 percent of its completed court cases and has assisted more than 28,000 immigrants and their family members.

"It's hard to overstate the influence that Judge Katzmann has had since he delivered the Marden lecture a decade ago," Markowitz said. "In those two years we have seen an absolute explosion in both the quality and quantity of lawyers that are available to poor immigrants, and at the epicenter of that explosion are the two programs that grew out of Judge Katzmann's work, both the [New York Immigration Family Unity Project] and the [Immigrant Justice Corps]."

Other speakers who lauded Katzmann's work included Ann Claire Williams, retired judge for the US Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit; Peter Markowitz '81, professor of law, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law; Lindsay Nash, visiting assistant clinical professor, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law; and Paul Light, Paulette Goddard Professor of Public Service, Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service.

Overwhelmingly, the speakers praised not just Katzmann's dedication to the underrepresented but the humility and kindness they've seen him bring to his work.

"Brother," Sotomayor said in her closing remarks, "You are the shining example of what a meaningful life can accomplish and of how care and compassion can serve the legal profession...I will always try to follow in your footsteps, knowing that you will always lead the way to what is right, what is just, and what is kind."

JEWISH DIAMOND TYCOON DIES IN PENIS ENLARGEMENT OPERATION

By HAGAY HACOHEN

Ehud Arye Laniad (photo credit: SOCIAL MEDIA)
Belgian Jewish diamond tycoon and billionaire Ehud Arye Laniado died on the operating table of a Paris-based clinic during a penis enlargement procedure on March 3.

Belgian Jewish diamond tycoon and billionaire Ehud Arye Laniado died on the operation table of a Paris-based clinic during a penis enlargement procedure on March 3, Belgian media reported.

Laniado, 65, was the owner of Omega Diamonds and worked in the industry for 40 years, gaining a name as one of the leading experts in the world in the evaluation of rough diamonds, according to media reports.

Omega Diamonds confirmed his death; a friend said that his nickname in the firm was “the Argentinian” because he always looked like “a tango dancer.”

Laniado began his professional career in the diamond industry in Tel Aviv, a path that led him to Angola and the Congo, and from there to Belgium.

A sharp dresser and a short man, as he was described by friends, Laniado allegedly had his accountant call him and read him the worth of his assets several times a day. The friend told The Sun that those were the only times of day that Laniado felt good about himself.

Laniado and his business partner, Sylvain Goldberg, were connected to a tax-evasion investigation in 2013 by the Belgian authorities. The partners agreed to pay 160 million euros to avoid legal proceedings. The late Laniado was meant to appear in appeals court on March 14 this year for the first hearing regarding this alleged tax evasion.

Laniado will be brought to Israel for his burial.

Iowa student death suspect wants trial moved for diversity

By Associated Press
The former farmhand charged with first-degree murder in the abduction and stabbing death of 20-year-old Mollie Tibbetts in Iowa wants to have his trial moved to a more diverse county.

The Des Moines Register reports that 24-year-old Cristhian Bahena Rivera's lawyers filed the motion Friday. They argue the Mexican national should be tried outside Poweshiek County to allow for more minority representation in the jury pool.

Rivera is accused of killing Tibbetts, a University of Iowa student who disappeared while out for a run July 18 in Brooklyn, Iowa. Investigators recovered her body a month later in a cornfield. A medical examiner has said Tibbetts was stabbed to death.

Rivera also is accused of being in the country illegally. He worked at a dairy farm a few miles from where Tibbetts disappeared.

I wish the people who spew the most racism had to take DNA tests to see how diverse our lineage is... America is a country of foreigners, a melting pot of ideas, we are great bc of our diverse mindsets being able to take on a range of problems. America is great bc we all are.

The fact that people shrug off "gang violence" as an unstoppable form of gun violence is a symptom of systemic racism.
A black teenager killed in a drive by needs us to stand up for them the same way we do for a white student being shot in school.
Racists do not discriminate.

The GOP have every opportunity to excommunicate Steve King for being a self-proclaimed White supremacist and Nazi sympathizer... but they embrace him.

The President would rather intimidate refugees than confront the violent white nationalism that is killing more and more innocent Americans every day.

Sounds about white

Most of the counter protesters at our events on #RoadToChange are open carrying white supremacists who attempt to use extremely fear based intimidation tactics... a lot are blatantly racist, sexist and selfish... but for the most part they are simply misinformed about reality.

With National Apprenticeship Week starting on Monday, the Equality and Human Rights Commission says firms need to take steps to get more people from minority groups into trainee schemes, favouring them against other similarly qualified candidates if necessary.

Few employers are making use of powers given to them under the 2010 Equality Act to tackle disadvantage and under-representation experienced by certain groups, according to a report by the commission, the University of Chester and the Young Women’s Trust. “Women continue to be shut out of key parts of the economy due to outdated gender stereotypes and a lack of support,” said Dr Carole Easton, the trust’s chief.

“We need a level playing field in the workplace for women, disabled people and ethnic minorities,” said Rebecca Hilsenrath, the commission’s chief executive. “If we can do this at the point of entry to the labour market, we will take giant steps towards closing pay gaps and eliminate the outdated idea that certain kinds of people ought to be doing certain kinds of jobs.”

I'm white, peeps. I'm certainly not a white supremacist. Nothing in this thread says that all white people are white supremacists. Please stop centering your hurt feelings.

Hey white people: Being friends with or dating a black person or POC doesn't make you not a racist. To the contrary, if you're a good friend, you'll actively work to unpack and unlearn all the racism and racist messages you've unconsciously been stewing in your whole life.

A cool thing would be if we saw more representations of mixed race families and especially mixed race families that don't contain any white people.

I'm sick of looking at white people. Someone please get more diversity on my teevee. (No offense, white people.)

The only "white culture" is white supremacy. If you want to talk about English culture or French culture or Spanish culture or German culture or some American spin on those European roots, go for it, but the only thing that bonds all white people together is racism.

Nothing more tiresome than white people pretending racism isn't as American as apple pie.

2 minute read.

I was taken by the pro-Maduro guerilla in San Antonio del tachira, robbed and beaten along with my security and then they forced us to get on our stomachs while they held guns to the back of our heads. They took everything we had. Am tweeting from a stranger`s phone #venezuela

2:34 PM - Feb 23, 2019 - Twitter Web Client

The guerilla was HEAVILY armed and I truly believed they would kill us all, they saw my camera and press pass and put guns on us all. After they finally let us go we only got 10 minutes down the road before gunfire broke out on both sides and we hid in a shed for over an hour.

Annika H Rothstein @truthandfiction

I want everyone to know this before I have to leave to the next location. They yelled at me that i was trying to infiltrate Venezuela and that what nl was doing was a crime, they took my things and called it contraband and slapped me across the face when I didn't move bc of shock.

Annika H Rothstein @truthandfiction

I want everyone to know what these people, this regime, is doing to its people and to anyone who tries to expose them. I am safe now but we are trying to get back to Caracas tonight. My body hurts, my soul hurts but I will never forget the Venezuelans who warned us and helped us

Annika H Rothstein @truthandfiction

Today I had a taste of what Venezuelans have gone through for over two decades and it was terrifying and humiliating and I hope if nothing else these tweets can help the world see what Venezuela is suffering under and in some small way contribute to an opening of eyes.

Jewish state for me, melting pot for thee pbs.twimg.com/media/D0STdCWWwAAoAkq...
Race and ethnicity have defined every nation on earth.

Except one: the USA.

It is defined by values.

To understand America, you must understand her values:

1. E Pluribus Unum
2. Liberty
3. In God We Trust

@DennisPrager calls this the American trinity.
Pakistan. Moreover, if the Jewish state of Israel is illegitimate because it created 700,000 Arab refugees, why isn't the Muslim state of Pakistan, which created more than eight million Hindu refugees, illegitimate?

The answer is obvious. When people isolate the one Jewish state in the world for sanctions, opprobrium and delegitimizing, they are doing so because it is the Jewish state. And that, quite simply, is why anti-Zionism is simply another form of Jew-hatred.

You can criticize Israel all you want. That does not make you an antisemite. But if you are an anti-Zionist or advocate the destruction of the Jewish state, then let's be clear: You are an enemy of the Jews and of Judaism, and the word for such a person is antisemite.

When "We" means "White Media," perhaps white media ought to introspect why indeed it didn't cover the rise of white supremacist terrorism, a phenomenon deeply embedded within the US, while nonwhite media & nonwhite sources repeatedly did. 6+ years ago:

Obviously this is a bad faith bullshit crusade against @sarahjeong & just another example of a desperate need for reactionary whites to feel victimhood.

As long as whites conceptualize racism as Hate rather than Power Structure, these people will run this play again, abetted by a largely-white media that doesn't get the difference. Note their targets are those like Sarah, usually POC, who attack racism-as-Power Structure.

Back then, the bigots insisted the NAACP were violent to distract from white supremacist terror. Today it's Black Lives Matter.

LGBT activist ‘burned down his own home because he was annoyed there was no prejudice to campaign against’

Jimmy McCloskey  Monday 25 Feb 2019 2:07 pm

An LGBT rights activist burned down his own house because he was annoyed there was no prejudice for him to campaign against, police say.

Nikki Joly, 54, is accused of faking the August 2017 fire – which killed his two dogs and three cats – because he’d been left bored after the passage of a nondiscrimination law in Jackson, Michigan, where he lives.
The knitting community is reckoning with racism

Fiber artists of color are taking to Instagram stories to call out instances of prejudice — and to try to shape a more inclusive future.

Kimberly Peirce directed an extraordinary episode of DEAR WHITE PEOPLE, and she deserves an Emmy for it. If you’re a voter, take note. (Also, get ready for her “butch romantic sex comedy, and a documentary with Glenn Greenwald! @GlennGreenwald

STRAIGHT WHITE MEN is so neat — a sly dose of subversive satire (literally) wrapped around a genuinely touching family dramedy. Young Jean Lee’s Broadway debut is like Vonnegut meets John Hughes (but really, her own thing). Greatest dance party scene in theatre history? NYC, go!

It’s important for white people to talk about race and racism, like everyone else. But if you’re having a panel of people talk about whether it’s OK for white people to wear blackface, call me crazy but I’d also like to hear from someone not white.

Also: casting isn’t illustration. Whether if Hermione were white in the books or not, actors can play anything. Literalism is anti-art.

Strong stuff here about the refusal of white pols & media to consider that their kin—people they know & think of as good—can be racist.

Awaiting inevitable crackdown on middle-aged white men after Times Sq video. We’re always the first to suffer.

“Trump assembled a broad white coalition that ran from Joe the Dishwasher to Joe the Plumber.”

And in the rare exception (Bryant Gumbel on NBC & CBS), the networks pair him with white co-hosts—yes, you could also have two POC host a morning show and the world would not end, either.

How can you possibly believe that categorical insults of white people in America do the same harm that they do directed toward black people? That’s willful denial of history, and for that matter the present.

This is a great point from @mattzollerseitz: that defensiveness about “p.c.” from straight white guys seems a lot like: fear of having to be as good as an actual open market of competition would require. vulture.com/2018/07/bill-m...

A lot of people aren’t just heartbroken. They’re scared. It doesn’t feel safe to be gay/black/female/Muslim/Latino/Jewish in America tonight.

Oh Trump, many sides is an error it favors a skin that is fairer how bout u name it Denounce&declare it It’s called white supremacist terror

Selectively quoting MLK and ignoring the systemic racism that elevates and protects men like Kavanaugh is dumbfounding and deeply problematic. If you think race and misogyny are not at play here while 11 white men defended their boys club at all costs, then you are complicit.

This is so disheartening to me & I’m a white male. To all the men, now is a good time to reach out to the women in your life & tell them you’re furious too. To the women, we believe you, love you and will stand up w/ you & for you to fight this last gasp of a terrified patriarchy Supporting Trump means you’re complicit in attacking women/the poor/the LGBT community/every race&religion other than White&Christian. EWWW.

Following this campaign has been so eye-opening to me, witnessing blatant sexism & realizing how immune I am to it as a white male.

1st they came for the Muslims & I did not speak out because I was not a Muslim. Then they came for the Hispanic immigrants & I did not speak out because I was not Hispanic. Then they came for women’s rights & I did not speak out because I was not a women. Speak the fuck out.

A quick reminder in these messed up times...
Rejecting someone’s racism, sexism, xenophobia and general bigotry does not make YOU the bigot. Don’t fall for this tactic. Unlimited tolerance of others’ bigotry leads to the disappearance of tolerance.

Ironic how the countries that’ve spent centuries colonizing the world are the loudest in complaining about immigrants.

As white people, we should not strive to "liberate" POC and other marginalized communities.
We should listen to and support these groups that are striving to liberate themselves.

What I would give for Baron Trump to fall in love with an immigrant, Muslim boy at his little prep school.

Racism, homophobia, xenophobia, and other prejudices that continue to exist TODAY, have been rebranded with terms such as:
- snowflake
- the black card
- the gay card
- attention seeking
- etc.
by white oppressors who refuse to accept accountability

The cost of Black America

If you are a white American, over the course of your lifetime the federal government will, on average and on your behalf, transfer $384,109 of your wealth and income to a single black individual.

According to the data derived from the 2014 federal budget, the average annual net tax/benefit broke down as follows:

- White: -$2,795
- Black: +$10,016

Over the course of an average 79-year lifespan, a white individual contributes a net $220,805 to the system, whereas over the course of an average 75-year lifespan, a black individual receives a net $751,200. However, since there are 4.6 times more whites than blacks in the USA, the black share has to be divided among the various contributors to sort out a one-to-one comparison.

Diversity is expensive. Now you understand why you won't have much of an inheritance to leave to your children. Do you really think it's worth it? And then, those natural conservatives to the south, the Hispanics, will surely improve the situation, right? After all, immigration helps the economy! Well, not so much.

- Hispanic: +7,298

In fact, because there are more Hispanics in the USA than Blacks, Hispanics are already a bigger cumulative net drain on the economy, $411,950,000,000 to $389,710,000,000. Needless to say, the ongoing demographic change from a predominantly white society to a less productive, less white one can be expected to have even more serious negative effects on the long-term economic prospects of the United States that it already has.

To quote the original author: "The negative fiscal impact of blacks and hispanics is significant. All of this discussion of a “national debt” and “deficit” is primarily of function of blacks and hispanics. Without them, we would be running budget surpluses today, even when keeping the military the same size."

France declares anti-Zionism a form of antisemitism in crackdown on racism against Jewish people

French president says surge in antisemitic attacks was unprecedented since World War Two Emmanuel Macron has declared anti-Zionism a form of antisemitism as he ramps up France’s crackdown on racism against Jewish people.

Speaking at the 34th annual dinner of the Representative Council of Jewish Institutions of France, Mr Macron said a surge in antisemitic attacks in his country had not been seen since World War Two.

He promised a new law to tackle hate speech on the internet and said France would adopt the definition of antisemitism set by the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (IHRA).

The IHRA definition does not use the phrase "anti-Zionism" but does say denying the Jewish people their right to self-determination "e.g., by claiming that the existence of a State of Israel is a racist endeavour," is antisemitic.

Some critics of Israel, its occupation of territory internationally recognised as Palestinian, and its isolation of the Gaza Strip, say they risk being unfairly branded antisemitic, although the IHRA definition says: "criticism of Israel similar to that levelled against any other country" is not.
Mr Macron's words were well received from the World Jewish Congress which said: "This is just the beginning of a long road ahead. Adopting this definition of anti-Semitism must be followed by concrete steps to encode into law and ensure that this is enforced."

The IHRA definition is not legally binding but does serve as an international guideline.

Germany and Britain adopted the definition in texts in 2016, though the European Union adopted a softer tone, calling the IHRA definition a "guidance tool" amid concern from some member states that it could make criticism of Israeli policy, particularly with regards to Palestinians, difficult.

Support free-thinking journalism and subscribe to Independent Minds

Mr Macron said France would not change its laws relating to antisemitism and that recognising the IHRA's definition must not be seen as a means of preventing people from criticising the Israeli government.
THIS IS HOW RACISM IS BEING SPREAD ACROSS THE INTERNET

For all the advantages of being online, there are some worrying dark sides, including racism. But there are differences in the way ‘cyber-racist’ individuals and groups operate.

Legal immigration flipped California from solid red to blue. Texas & Florida are next if conservatives don’t stop repeating this politically correct mantra because they’re more afraid of being called racists than they are of their core voting base being demographically replaced. pbs.twimg.com/media/Dz9cWIcAEkNGe...
The ‘news’ has always been propaganda, but we are reaching peak levels. The presenter must now reflect the anti-white message they are regurgitating. The racial tension is so bad on campus that some students say they don't feel safe. Nearly two weeks ago a photo posted on the GroupMe app shows a black student, later identified as Elijah John, with the caption "Need to call the Klan to solve this issue."

On Tuesday, the Cobb County chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and KSU students stood alongside Elijah as they demanded appropriate action to be taken by KSU.

"This is no way isolated incident as the university has been complacent and continuing to allow for a hostile and violent environment to festered and continues to sweep issues like these under the rug," said student Alexa Vaca. "The university has a duty to protect its minority students."

What do the students want?

- Strict sanction & repercussions added to school policy for offenders of discriminatory actions and language
- An anti-racist education center
- Anti-racist & diversity training
- A diverse faculty and staff to be representative of the student population

We faced limitations in education, employment, and life in general. Daniel P. Horan OFM is a Franciscan friar, Roman Catholic priest, theologian, and author. He is currently assistant professor of systematic theology and spirituality at Catholic Theological Union in Chicago. He is a columnist for National Catholic Reporter. Wikipedia

Pope Says God Wills the Diversity of Religions
At the Pope’s recent visit to Abu Dhabi, he and the Muslim Grand Imam of al-Azhar signed a document entitled “A Document on Human Fraternity for World Peace and Living Together.” Among other things, it said this:

The pluralism and the diversity of religions, colour, sex, race and language are willed by God in His wisdom, through which He created human beings. . .

This divine wisdom is the source from which the right to freedom of belief and the freedom to be different derives. Therefore, the fact that people are forced to adhere to a certain religion or culture must be rejected, as too the imposition of a cultural way of life that others do not accept.

Le Mémorial de la Déportation des Juifs de France names Jews deported in the Holocaust. Some got word this week they are receiving payments from the French government in reparation.
Around three-quarters of a century after the Holocaust ended with the extermination of six million Jews, some survivors, as well as victims' families and estates, are receiving reparations from France, in acknowledgment of the government's role in deporting them to Nazi death camps via French trains.

Forty-nine people who made it out of the Holocaust alive are receiving around $400,000 each, according to former Ambassador Stuart Eizenstat, the State Department's expert adviser on Holocaust-era issues, who helped negotiate the agreement. He said 32 spouses of deportees who died will get up to $100,000, depending on how long their spouse lived. Heirs and estates of deportees or their spouses are also getting paid.

The money is the second and last round of payments from $60 million France provided following a 2014 agreement in exchange for recipients relinquishing the right to sue.

&Palm Springs city council comprised entirely of white LGBTQs &anti-whites sue city bc council lacks ‘diversity’ White LGBTQs will soon learn that they aren’t nearly as ‘diverse’ & special as they think they are. If you’re white, you must be replaced—regardless of your sexuality pbs.twimg.com/media/Dzz7vB9U0AMIiWi...
How a lack of diversity is threatening America's first all-LGBTQ city council 12:30 p.m.

The LGBTQ community celebrated when Palm Springs, California filled its city council with openly LGBTQ members last year, but that celebration is pretty much over.
The council — made up of three gay men, one bisexual woman, and one transgender woman — represents a city that's majority gay and lesbian. But its white faces don't reflect the fact that the city is also 25 percent Latino, leading to a series of "internal and external" challenges that threaten the council's future, The Washington Post reports.

Palm Springs' city council "has had a gay and lesbian majority for a decade, but very few women have served in recent years," the Post writes. The city is often characterized as a retirement community, prompting "the question of age diversity" on the council, the Post continues. Yet the biggest problem has stemmed from an all-white council representing a city with an 80-percent Latino student body in its public schools. After last year's election, a Latino civil rights group threatened a lawsuit over Palm Springs' at-large voting system, saying it "dilutes the ability of Latinos to elect candidates of their choice."
The council stymied the lawsuit by voting last year to hold council elections by district instead of a city-wide. It'll also hold elections by those newly defined districts later this year. Two members, including Mayor Robert Moon, opposed the move, seeing as they live in the same district, along with a third council member. Only one of them — Geoff Kors, who voted for the districts — has said so far he'll run again. And in the newly-created District 1, Palm Springs native Grace Garner, who is a straight Latina woman, is likely to join the force.

Trump administration launches global effort to end criminalization of homosexuality

The administration is responding in part to a reported hanging of a young gay man in Iran, Trump’s top geopolitical foe.
So great to see #ExposeChristianSchools getting the attention it deserves. Here's more context: Many of these schools now receive public funding through vouchers. Their textbooks call slavery "black immigration," say Satan hatched the idea of "psychology."

By day, this prominent white supremacist works as an EMT, treating patients of all races. By night, he goes on a popular neo-Nazi podcast to compare his black patients to animals and espouse hatred of Jews. Important story by @letsgomathias

When a HuffPost reporter asked Congressman Steve King if he was a white supremacist or white nationalist, he didn't deny it. @letsgomathias breaks down all the evidence that King is, in fact, a white supremacist (and the GOP doesn't care).

Trump's main white nationalist twitter troll is a Middlebury grad in Manhattan huffingtonpost.com/entry/trump-wh... via @HuffPostPol

"It's hard for us to grasp the idea that white women are culpable, because it doesn't fit the widespread culture image of us as benevolent, peaceful and nurturing."

A white nationalist podcast host is also a Florida public school teacher. On her podcast she talks about how some races are smarter than others and how she influences the school with her beliefs. New from me, @letsgomathias and @ohheyjenna:

"I think women are just tired of feeling like we're second class. We're tired of white men in power telling all of us what to do."

"How many more children have to die before our immigration detention system and our humanitarian response changes to protect children?"

Then, I looked at the private, evangelical schools that are benefiting from school voucher programs DeVos wants to expand. These schools are allowed to teach basically whatever they want. Turns out, they teach lies and racism.

Understand 'systemic racism' to truly grasp crime numbers

BY ALLISON BAIR Observer columnist  Feb 18, 2019

In the justice system: stop-and-frisk laws, excessive arrests and sentencing, the “Just Say No” campaign, crack vs. powder cocaine sentencing laws, three strikes rule, etc.

In housing: the FHA and “redlining” loans, not investing in infrastructure in communities of color, putting fewer food stores and more liquor stores in majority-black neighborhoods, heavily advertising alcohol and cigarettes in these same neighborhoods, etc.

In education: less funding to communities of color, harsher treatment/suspension/expulsion rates for black kids (this is apparent beginning in preschool!), the School-to-Prison pipeline, fewer scholarships and more debt in higher education, etc.
Look into each of these things, because I do not have time to elucidate now. The bottom line is that systemic racism and race relations are such huge, almost unfathomable concepts. Saying something like “...blacks in America over-represent [SIC] violent crime is just plain truth,” is dangerously misleading.

This Syrian refugee isn't leaving St. John's, no matter how many others head for bigger cities

'My children's dream is here,' says Safaa Tohme

Ryan Cooke · CBC News · Posted: Feb 18, 2019 7:00 AM NT | Last Updated: February 18

Tohme recounts the difficulty of leaving her home in Syria, but says she and her husband jumped at the chance for a safe place to raise her four children. (Malone Mullin/CBC)

It was during a Ramadan family feast on their sprawling olive farm when Safaa Tohme and her loved ones had to make a quick decision.
Tohme's youngest child was born in St. John's. Her oldest, who fled with Tohme and her husband, remembers the war.

Her plan has changed several times — along with the birth of her daughter three months ago — but it has always included Newfoundland.

She thought she'd become a nurse, and completed her language classes and enrolled in an adult basic education program to get her high school equivalency. She began selling Syrian food at the local farmers market in St. John's and found an eager clientele. It went from being a side project to being a thriving business.

White people must be stopped

This is not my theory but I heard it once and it’s very clarifying: The Republicans are all about maintaining the status quo, i.e., keeping privileged white men in power. That dictates virtually all of their behavior.

In the end, our country always tilts toward the progressive, but social media has drastically accelerated that course.

So it was inevitable, I think, that the last dying gasps of a kind of nativist, male-chauvinist, white-supremacist mentality would rise up.

Right now the government of Thailand is risking lives to SAVE children while the US government is actively trying to HARM them.

It’s so brave for a bunch of mostly white cisgender heterosexuals to come forward and speak about their oppression!

lol I’m a middle-aged white woman! Squarely in Hillary’s demo!

I’m going to go out on a limb and guess the author of this embarrassing drivel is white.

WTF, white women?

That being said, I think #BlackLivesMatter is the one that scares them most. Black people having agency freaks white people out.

A. Listen to the professionals & respond calmly; or
B. Stoke public fears & anti immigrant hysteria while not providing financial assistance & leadership to stop it.

Jewish Community Centers Face Third Wave of Bomb Threats Nationwide

Jewish groups ask: Why won’t Trump denounce anti-Semitic attacks?

Jewish Center Bomb Threat Suspect Is Arrested in Israel

Bomb Threats

An Israeli-American teen was arrested in March 2017 and charged with making more than 150 bomb threats to Jewish Community Centers, schools, ADL offices, and other Jewish community institutions. A second man, Juan Thompson, 31, of St. Louis, Missouri, was arrested and charged with making copycat threats against Jewish centers and ADL offices. Thompson is alleged to have made at least eight of the threats against JCCs in January and February as part of a sustained campaign to harass and intimidate a former girlfriend. He was charged with one count of cyberstalking, and other charges may be pending.

In total, ADL identified 165 bomb threats against JCCs and other Jewish institutions during the first quarter of 2017. The Justice Department affidavits, which accompanied the announcement of the criminal charges against the Israeli teen, graphically documented the chilling texts of some of the bomb threats. A number of the calls to Jewish community institutions graphically threatened a “bloodbath” where “Jews” were going to have their heads blown off. Other threats to Jewish institutions included specific language that a large...

In the era of the #MeToo and Times Up movement, New Brunswick’s Mesh Diversity is helping businesses create an inclusive and diverse culture in their workforce.

According to the 2016 census, only 3.4 per cent of the population of New Brunswick are visible minorities.

The concept for the company was inspired by the co-founders professional experiences.

“18 years of racism in a country that would welcome you but not necessarily include you,” says said Dr. Leena Karumanchery, Chief Diversity Officer of Mesh Diversity.

Karumanchery says sexism, homophobia and racism are alive and real and he wants to help companies understand how to deal with it productively.

Their software platform provides actionable, real-time metrics that drive healthier more productive business principles, while putting safety, belonging and inclusion at the forefront.

“Organizations who are interested in diversity, interested in inclusion can actually do that while getting the main business done too,” said Karumanchery.

Intelsys Aviation Systems hired Mesh Diversity a year ago to help with their IT offices in India and Vietnam, but they also use the service here too.

“I think our industry has a diversity problem, our geography has a diversity problem we live in an area of the world that is very white, Christian, male, so that is reflected in our company being based here,” says Wayne Chamberlain, president of Intelsys Aviation Systems.
Chamberlain says his last dozen new hires have shown the impact mesh diversity has. The training and management solutions Mesh Diversity implements can be tracked online by clients.

“The candidates that are joining our team now are just an amazing fit for us culturally and it has kind of hit the ground running and feels like they have been here since forever so that alone has been worth the investment for us,” said Chamberlain.

For Mesh Diversity, business is booming and they are expanding to the USA and Europe.

To support their new growth they are now hiring content marketers and software developers.
Men are social creatures, motivated by social approval. Indeed, many will never think outside the box unless encouraged to do so by someone else. This is why the anti-whites police & censor our language. If they control what we can say, they can control what we think. Break free.

Immigrant work visa programs are a self-replicating scam. Importing foreign workers suppresses wages, thus attracting fewer native students. Fewer Americans pursuing visa-saturated occupations is then used as pretext for more visas. They know this; they just assume you don’t.

Finally, I think this is a risky premise. The idea that "white culture" must have a meaning (or it makes white people/you/anyone a non-entity/the remainder/etc.) is part of what is fueling white nationalism today. Why is searching for meaning in one's race a requirement?

Self-searching is important. And we can probably identify some things as white culture. But in searching for the "something" in white culture, are we also giving support to ideas like white nationhood, white identity, white pride, etc.? I'm honestly not sure.

No, seriously. Trump is proposing to redirect money from important things to a fake battle with a fake immigration crisis. Moreover, with court challenges, the state of emergency may not get the wall built quicker. edition.cnn.com/2019/01/24/pol...

Racist Shows Up to Harass Black Woman at Press Conference Announcing He Won't Be Charged For Harassing Black Woman

At a press conference, Monday, Vermont’s chief law enforcement officer almost completed one of the greatest performances of white supremacists in recent history as he announced that he wouldn’t file charges against a white nationalist who allegedly stalked, harassed and terrified one of the state’s only black lawmakers.

As Vermont Attorney General T.J. Donovan described the voluminous evidence, he pointed out that he didn’t have enough evidence. He explained how the hate speech was a matter of free speech. He explained that the harassment against the black family was bad, but that it wasn’t a crime. All the while, the woman was the target of the incessant acts of hate stood beside him as he shucked and jived.

Then the racists showed up.

According to WNYT, On Monday, Vermont Attorney General T.J Donovan held a press conference at the Congregation Beth El synagogue in Bennington, Vt. to announce that, instead of filing charges, he would instead release a 10-page report on the racial harassment of former State Rep. Kiah Morris, the state’s only black woman state representative who resigned in September after allegedly being harangued by white supremacist Max Misch, who describes himself the man who “be representin dem white muhfuckaz of Bennington.”

The press conference went off the rails when Bennington resident Max Misch entered the room as Morris answered a television reporter’s question about the AG’s probe. Misch had been subject to a yearlong protective order in 2016 prohibiting him from contacting Morris over a series of racist tweets, messages and online comments he aimed at her.

Misch wore a black long-sleeve shirt bearing the image of alt-right icon Pepe the Frog. Many in the room began shouting “No, no, no!” and “Out!” when he arrived.

“This is not safe,” one person shouted. “Why is this asshole allowed to come in here?” someone else in the crowd said.

“Because it’s America,” another attendee replied. “We have to listen to everyone, whether we like it or not. But we don’t have to put up with it.”

Also in attendance was Kevin Hoyt, a failed Republican candidate who has accused Morris and her husband of inciting others to paint him as a Nazi. Hoyt says he is a victim of reverse racism after his request for a stalking order of protection against Morris’ husband was rejected by a judge. The hunting expert and gun advocate has repeatedly insinuated that Morris and her husband were fabricating their claims to make Vermont look like a state that tolerates racism.
"I call bullshit on Ms. Morris," yelled Hoyt. "As a political opponent who was accused of being a Nazi, I think we're hearing one side of the story. I was called a Nazi, I was called a white supremacist. Obviously, racism exists in Vermont. I question to what degree, though."

After winning a House seat in the state legislature, Morris gave up her re-election bid before resigning in September, citing her husband's open-heart surgery combined with Hoyt and Misch's continued online campaign of harassment. Citing tweets that told her to "Go back to Africa, it's the only place you'll ever be safe," the Attorney General's report listed forty-eight separate racial incidents where Morris had been threatened and attacked, including:

- A message to Morris' husband informing him that he should put his wife "in her place," or the messenger would do it for him;
- A tweet that read: "You will never silence me. Every time you attend a political rally at the Four Corners or another local venue and I'm aware of the event, I will troll the hell out of you and the other subversives there. Maybe I'll bring a friend or three with me too;"
- Someone paintballing Morris' car and spray painting a swastika on a tree near Morris' home;
- Another tweet said, "Stop pushing 'social justice' on your nearly entirely White constituency in Bennington, VT. Go back to Chicago if you want to engage in SJW [Social Justice Warrior] bullshit. We will continue to fight against your efforts to make our town/state look more like your mongrel son;"
- Multiple reports to police of strange men and suspicious vehicles in the cemetery behind Morris' home;
- A break-in at the Morris home where Morris' husband's neckties were stolen and found in the cemetery (Police did not fingerprint or swab the crime scene);
- Morris' child care provider reporting a man sitting in a car outside the home filming the Morris residence;

Donovan concluded that there was not enough evidence to charge Misch with any crimes, noting that there was a lack of evidence. "No Vermont court has specifically considered whether communications like those sent to Ms. Morris could be construed as 'true threats,'" Donovan's findings read, adding:

In this case, the online communications that were sent to Ms. Morris by Max Misch and others were clearly racist and extremely offensive. However, the First Amendment does not make speech sanctionable merely because its content is objectionable. The question here is whether the messages, in context, were communicating a serious expression of an intent to harm Ms. Morris or her family. The fact that a number of messages were directed at her role as an elected official raises the issue of whether they were intended to express political opposition through the use of hyperbole and insult, as noted in the case law above. Therefore, there appears to be insufficient evidence to pursue criminal charges under Vermont law.

"Kiah Morris was a victim of racial harassment. Relatively few Vermonters have had any of these experiences, and very few have had these experiences in the context of vicious racial harassment," Donovan said, according to the Washington Post. But, he added, "the Constitution does not permit us to prosecute racist speech because we find it offensive."

Meanwhile, Morris stood in the face of her harassers and the attorney general, noting that law enforcement officers had shrugged off her claims.

"For two years, we lived in my husband's childhood home, feeling unsafe, never sleeping peacefully because we had to be vigilant," said Morris. "We did everything we were told to do. We reported as we should, held nothing back and trusted in a system that was insufficient and inept at addressing and repairing the harm done."

So there you have it. It was just political expression and free speech, which is aptly expressed in the Vermont state motto:
Less than a month later, police arrested the man accused of harassing Morris, a self-described white nationalist, on a charge that he possessed large capacity gun magazines, which are now illegal in Vermont. Max Misch, 36, pleaded not guilty on Thursday.

"The Attorney General's conclusions and public statements in this case have focused on the conduct of private citizens, while remaining silent on the actions and inactions of Bennington officials," the NAACP and ACLU said in a joint statement, adding that the ACLU has a pending racial profiling lawsuit against the Bennington Police Department.

8 Australian picture books that celebrate family diversity

More contemporary Children books are telling stories of family diversity, multiculturalism and Indigeneity.

By Sarah Mokrzycki
Bigger Digger by Brett Avison and Craig Smith (2011)

Brett Avison's Bigger Digger is the first of four books featuring a young boy called Bryn and his dog Oscar. In this story, Bryn and Oscar make an exciting discovery when digging in the backyard, and need bigger and bigger diggers to uncover what they have found. Each of Avison's Bryn and Oscar books is set on "Mum and Ted's farm". The use of Mum and Ted as titles for the adult characters is a simple but effective way of introducing the concept of stepfamilies.

My Two Blankets by Irena Kobald and Freya Blackwood (2014)

This book tells the story of a young girl who leaves her war torn country and settles in Australia. Raised by her auntie, the book showcases family diversity in both formation and culture. The story examines the character’s feelings of loneliness and isolation in a country where everything is “strange”, including the language, which she doesn’t understand. To cope, she metaphorically wraps herself in a blanket of things that are familiar. After befriending a white Australian girl, she starts to make herself a new blanket with her refreshed sense of belonging.

Family Forest by Kim Kane and Lucia Masciullo (2010)

This book showcases one particular family - with half, whole and step siblings as well as different parental relationships (a father and stepmother, and a mother and her partner). A common issue with diverse family representation is that it often comes in the form of “issue books” - books that are issue driven rather than story driven. It is often difficult to explain a topic or issue without sacrificing story, but Family Forest manages to explain blended families.

Love Makes a Family by Sophie Beer (2018)

This vibrantly colourful book showcases families in many forms, including same-sex and single parents, with character skin tones varying on every page. Although families are at the centre of this book, diverse family representation is explored through the illustrations, not the text. Instead, the story focuses on the one thing that truly makes a family – love.

Rural low income whites are far more likely than urban blacks to be unnecessarily & unjustifiably prescribed opiates. According to the media & academia, this means that blacks are the true victims here. Man, it must suck to not have your life ruined by opiates pbs.twimg.com/media/DzK9FavXQAEJc9I...
How Racial Bias Has Shaped the Opioid Epidemic

A California-based study indicates ingrained bias within the health care system has helped determine the crisis’ victims and caused others needing help to remain neglected.

By Gaby Galvin, Staff Writer  Feb. 11, 2019
Implicit biases in doctor’s offices and elsewhere in health care are likely drivers behind stark racial and class divides in drug addiction and overdose deaths in California, a new study suggests.

While affecting people across race and ethnicity, the opioid crisis gripping the nation has been concentrated largely among low-income whites, and has been labeled a problem primarily of public health, not of criminal justice. The epidemic is thought to have been touched off by a combination of social factors – including trauma, poverty and a lack of economic opportunity – and the widespread availability of prescription opioids beginning in the 1990s.

The new study, published Monday in JAMA Internal Medicine, indicates the health care field has had a hand in driving the epidemic that goes beyond merely dispensing prescription drugs, suggesting that differing access to and within the system has resulted in rampant addiction among low-income whites as well as a sea of untreated pain in minority communities.

“The prescription drug crisis should really be thought of as a double-sided epidemic,” says Joseph Friedman, the study’s lead author and a medical student at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA. “Essentially, the systematic racism within the health care system has led to increased addiction and overdoses in low-income white areas, but also, (to) insufficient treatment among communities of color.”
“These disparities may have ironically shielded communities of color from the brunt of the opioid epidemic, but they also represent disparities in the form of lack of adequate access for the treatment of pain and psychiatric conditions,” Friedman says.

‘Medicine’s Racism Problems Go Even Deeper’? So true PBS. Racism is rampant in medicine, like allowing low IQ, low test score, unqualified non-whites into med school over high IQ, high test score, qualified whites

BRUSSELS — Racial discrimination against Africans “is endemic” in Belgium’s institutions and the nation needs to apologize for the crimes committed during its colonization of Congo and make reparations, U.N. experts said Monday.
Belgium’s actions in Congo have long been criticized as one of the worst examples of colonial abuse. Writer Adam Hochschild alleged in his 1998 book “King Leopold’s Ghost” that Leopold reigned over the mass deaths of millions of Congolese.

“The root causes of present-day human rights violations lie in the lack of recognition of the true scope of the violence and injustice of colonization,” the U.N. Working Group of Experts on People of African Descent said in an interim report on Belgium.

King Leopold’s reign over Congo from 1885 to 1908 was notorious for its brutality. After Leopold handed over Congo to the Belgian state, the tiny nation continued to hold sway over an area 80 times its size half a world away until Congo became independent in 1960.

The UN group says racism in Belgium continues today.

“(We are) concerned about the human rights situation of people of African descent in Belgium who experience racism and racial discrimination,” it said. “There is clear evidence that racial discrimination is endemic in institutions in Belgium.”

I’ve seen a fair amount of men who are introspecting to try to understand the role that they and their actions (or silence) have played in rape culture. White women - what are we doing? How can we do better at organizing our fellow white women and dismantling these structures?

Dear powerful white men talking about how much better life would be if there were more women in power: if you aren’t actively grooming the woman that is going to replace you in 2020, then please, shut the fuck up. Love, the woman of America

I'm not saying all white men are bad, I'm saying they (and their interests) are over-represented in government and positions of power and we need a government that represents all of us.

This is a question that's especially important for white or male instructors to think about. So many of the issues my friends have had in writing workshops are when the instructor is a man or is white (or both). How can we do a better job when racism/misogyny enter our classrooms?

THREAD: Fellow white folks, let's talk about this because I feel like maybe you don't know what the alternatives are. "Members of the Krakora household... have called police an estimated 60 times in the 18 years they've lived at their current address."

Almost every expert I quote in my stories is a woman. I try to avoid them being all white women. I try to prioritize QTPOC sources when I can; in sports that's not always possible & I know I could be better at this. But the lack of (white) male voices in my work is intentional.

Here's a tip for men: if you're asked to be on a panel or appear at an event & there are no women, decline the opportunity & send a list of 3-5 qualified women to appear instead. White folks, same if you're asked & there are no POC.

I apologize for my silence. I've followed the conversation & watched as much of the doc as I've been able. Fellow white feminists, it's the least we can do to show up for Black women & girls when they speak out. Sexual violence, against anyone, is our problem.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (WTHR) — New legislation in Georgia would outlaw any symbols, monuments, memorials or other dedications to the Confederacy on public property.

Under HB 175, the only exception to the ban would be at museums, Civil War battlefields, 11Alive reported.

Even flying a Confederate battle flag on private property might be outlawed.

The bill would also make it illegal to display symbols of the Confederacy at a residence, store, place of business, public building or school. That law includes inside or outside those buildings.

A Georgia resident told 11Alive that she doesn't agree with the proposal because it would take away from the education of the country's history.

EXCLUSIVE: Paul Feig’s digital production company Powderkeg has launched Break the Room. It is a writers room development initiative formulated with writer-producer Sameer Gardezi. BTR, done with support from PopCulture Collab and MuslimArc, will approach the creation of diverse content by bringing writers of color together with community thought leaders for a week long writers room filled with diverse scribes to put marginalized voices in control of representing each projects’ community and ideas.

Feig has been quietly road testing this initiative, and the first show to come out of it is the digital short-form series East of La Brea, produced in association with Lyft Entertainment and Pillars Fund.

The project follows two twentysomething working class Muslim women, Aisha Hassan and Farha Munshi, as they struggle to navigate the changing landscape of their native Los Angeles home. East of La Brea premieres at SXSW, competing in the Episodic Pilot Competition.

BTR has completed two rooms in Los Angeles and Albuquerque respectively with another one to commence later this month in Portland. The first project under the banner is and untitled D’Lo project, which is based on the life of Sri Lankan trans comic D’Lo, who was supported by what they call an “all queer” writers room to tell the story of coming back to his small desert hometown of Lancaster, CA. From the Albuquerque room has come The Great Manygoats, a comedy about a Navajo family that struggles to cut through the red tape of government grant funding by changing their trading post business into a vegan sex shop. This project was written by an all Native American room.
The next room will write a comedy centered on the refugee experience of Portland comedian and Libyan native Mohand Elshieky. The aim is to highlight the experience of living in a “welcoming” ultra-liberal bubble, yet still feeling like a fish out of water.

BTR is also looking to scale internationally with partnerships lining up in Canada, India and the Middle East, with plans to develop stories that have a unique connection to each region. The first BTR partners are international production company Hyde Park Entertainment and ShivHans Pictures, who have joined to fund development of a South Asian-American comedy through a BTR writers room.

“Real change requires breaking norms and paradigms,” Gardezi said. “What makes Break the Room impactful is that it’s not a diversity initiative, a shadowing program or a workshop. We are empowering writers by actually letting them do the work and be part of the process in a meaningful way. It’s less about backing a cause than it is investing in underrepresented voices.”

“We started Powderkeg to tell the stories of talented, emerging and underrepresented voices in comedy. Break the Room invites these writers across the country and globe to develop, control and craft them, with our support, in a way that will resonate with viewers,” adds Paul Feig and Laura Fischer.

Feig and Fischer launched Powderkeg as a digital studio to champion diverse comedic voices and incubate multi-platform projects. It is soon to launch a feature film contest with Issa Rae’s Color Creative looking for the next great teen movie, and its inaugural female directors program Powderkeg: Fuse will premier later this spring. The company is also in development on a variety of formats, including a half hour scripted comedy at YouTube Premium, a series at Snapchat, two movies for Freeform and a multi-script deal at the interactive platform EKO. The Powderkeg venture is being funded by Superbrands Capital, the private entertainment industry investment company run by Adam Bold.

As long as Feig continues working toward another mad comedy vehicle for Melissa McCarthy, these offshoot projects are very laudable.

Trump's #SOTU was the strongest speech of his presidency. It may not change the math much overall -- there's not a lot of give in his numbers -- but it's a reminder that when he's on-script, his depiction of an America that is essentially good is still compelling.

Diversity is an asset you should want to acquire, not an obligation you should feel compelled to perform.

Shocking, white men aren't the only people who can provide mandates, or the only people with legitimate needs.

Let's get serious about what would actually advance diversity in Hollywood: wapo.st/1DL2Rm5

If you think black men with the level of talent these white guys have would get the same opportunities, you are insane.

Santa Claus is a figure we let into our homes and close to kids. Insisting he be white betrays anxiety about letting black men do this.

Diversity helped make pop culture so much better in 2015: wapo.st/1UzXfIR

If Confederate memorials were erected to bolster white supremacy, we can't just leave those voids empty.

Easiest measure of Hollywood racism: the white men they want to make stars in comparison to the black men they ignore: bit.ly/wdaJl

The more I think about it, the more I think the human race is better off without white people.

Your world view must be so demented if you think that there is "massive institutional race discrimination against whites."

Bannon, Flynn, Sessions -- Great! Senate must demand that Sessions as AG stop the massive institutional race discrimination against whites!

For the first time ever a group of mediocre white men couldn't get what they wanted.

Of course, this means stop putting white men in positions of power. But we already know that.

Anti-Semitism almost killed him – twice. At the State of the Union, Congress sang him 'Happy Birthday'

Congress sings 'Happy Birthday' to Judah Samet, Holocaust survivor, during SOTU

The Pittsburgh synagogue shooting survivor was a guest of President Trump's at the State of the Union address on the night of his 81st birthday.
He survived the Holocaust, escaped the Tree of Life shooting and, now, had members of Congress singing "Happy Birthday" to him.

Judah Samet, who turned 81 on Tuesday, attended the State of the Union address as one of President Donald Trump's guests and received special recognition from the president.

"Tonight, we are also joined by Pittsburgh survivor Judah Samet. He arrived at the synagogue as the massacre began. But not only did Judah narrowly escape death last fall – more than seven decades ago, he narrowly survived the Nazi concentration camps," Trump said.

After Trump recognized Samet, the chamber broke out into song to wish him a "Happy Birthday," one of the more touching moments from Tuesday night.
In October, USA TODAY sat down with Samet in his Pittsburgh apartment two days after an anti-Semitic gunman killed 11 of his friends at the Tree of Life synagogue.

Samet was four minutes late to services that Sabbath. A conversation with his housekeeper delayed him. When he arrived in the synagogue's parking lot, a man knocked on his car window.

“He told me, ‘There’s a shooting inside your synagogue,'” Samet told USA TODAY at the time. “All of a sudden, I see this guy who was a detective hiding behind a wall but popping his head out. He had a pistol and he was shooting.”

Bullets zipped by Samet’s car, but the former soldier in the Israeli Army said he wasn’t riled.

“I was very lucky. Four minutes saved my life,” he said.
It wasn't the first time Samet dodged death in the face of violent anti-Semitism. When he was a young boy, Samet survived 10 months in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp during World War II and was just a stopped train ride away from Auschwitz.

"Judah says he can still remember the exact moment, nearly 75 years ago, after 10 months in a concentration camp, when he and his family were put on a train, and told they were going to another camp," Trump said Tuesday night.

"Suddenly the train screeched to a halt. A soldier appeared. Judah's family braced for the worst. Then, his father cried out with joy: 'It's the Americans.'"

Samet was one of two Holocaust survivors and one of two Pittsburgh shooting survivors honored Tuesday. SWAT Officer Timothy Matson, who was injured in the massacre, and Joshua Kaufman, who was a prisoner at the Dachau Concentration Camp, both received recognition from Trump.

After the shooting, Samet was again reminded of that hate from the Holocaust. "It never ends. That was my thought," he said.

Samet had been attending Tree of Life for more than 50 years. He knew all 11 people killed. But he was steadfast in how he would handle their killing.

"How did I handle the Holocaust? You got to go on," Samet said.

Senate Passes Bill That Rebukes Trump and Opposes Israel Boycott

By Catie Edmondson

Feb. 5, 2019
WASHINGTON — The Senate overwhelmingly approved a Middle East policy bill on Tuesday that included both a rebuke to President Trump over his withdrawal of troops from Syria and Afghanistan and a contested measure to allow state and municipal governments to punish companies that boycott, divest from or place sanctions on Israel.

The measure, which passed 77 to 23, started as the kind of routine policy bill that passes the Senate with little to no opposition. It reauthorizes at least $3.3 billion in military financing to Israel and extends security aid to Jordan, imposes new sanctions on individuals who provide support to the Syrian government and directs the Treasury Department to determine whether the Central Bank of Syria is engaged in money laundering.

“This represents the broad consensus of this body about our nation’s responsibilities as an ally and a partner,” Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky, the majority leader, said on Tuesday.

Alan Greenspan Thinks White Collar Workers Earn Too Much

Can the U.S. government counter this trend?

“Yes, there are options to combat that decline, but contrary to what many people believe, we do very poorly in opening up our borders to skilled immigrants. Our H1-B visa restrictions are a disgrace. Most high-income people in our country do not realize that their incomes are being subsidized by their protection from competition from highly skilled people who are prevented from immigrating to the United States. But we need such skills in order to staff our productive economy, so that the
This is a truly bizarre and new form of trickle-down economics. Greenspan thinks that we should import more high skilled workers, reduce the wages of our current high skill workers, and that this will somehow "grow" the standard of living for Americans.

It's almost Orwellian: poverty equals prosperity! Foreign workers equals Americans. Market competition is subsidy. Subsidizing imported workers through subsidized education equals market competition.
Early life and education

Greenspan was born in the Washington Heights area of New York City. His father, Herbert Greenspan, was of Romanian Jewish descent, and his mother, Rose Goldsmith, was of Hungarian Jewish descent. They were divorced. Alan grew up with his mother in the household of his maternal grandparents who were born in Russia. His father worked as a stockbroker and market analyst in New York City.

Diversity Day

By:
Lauren Johnson

Updated: Feb 04, 2019 07:16 PM CST
George Nettels Elementary students received a valuable lesson today.

Students from PSU dropped by to educate the children on diversity. And they did this as a part of their service for Black History Month.

Members from the Pittsburg State Black Student Association and Hispanics of Today stopped by classrooms to get kids more aware of diversity. The lesson worked to share the meaning behind Black History Month.

"We wanted them to know that we all have differences, we’re all not just one thing. We’re all not just tall. We’re all not just short. But we do have differences, these differences make the world bigger and better each and everyday," says La’Shay Thomas, Pres. of the Black Student Assoc. at PSU.

The hands-on exercises included a story detailing the importance of varied backgrounds as well as a project that made kids aware that differences are okay.

"We give the children one crayon and tell them to color the world with this one crayon. Color your favorite place, your favorite thing, your favorite meal. And then we give them many crayons just to show them the differences between the colors and we compare that to the world. And usually the students like the picture with the color or more differences. And we’re saying that’s how the world is and should be," says La’Shay Thomas.

And the PSU students feel like the event taught them a little something, too. Program facilitator Marisela Resendiz says seeing the children eager to learn about diversity makes her hopeful for the next generation.

"Something that they would take away is simply embracing who they are. And knowing that their differences are what makes them unique," says Marisela Resendiz, Hispanics of Today at PSU.

This is just one of the events the school is sponsoring to observe Black History Month. Both programs also work on the PSU campus to spread messages of inclusion and diversity.

Amazon defends racial and gender bias claims about facial recognition tool

Amazon has defended its facial-recognition tool, Rekognition, against claims of racial and gender bias following a study published by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Photo: 123rf

The researchers compared tools from five companies, including Microsoft and IBM.

While none was 100 percent accurate, it found that Amazon's Rekognition tool performed the worst when it came to recognising women with darker skin.

Amazon said the study was "misleading".

The study found that Amazon had an error rate of 31 percent when identifying the gender of images of women with dark skin.

This compared with a 22.5 percent rate from Kairos, which offers a rival commercial product, and a 17 percent rate from IBM.

By contrast Amazon, Microsoft and Kairos all successfully identified images of light-skinned men 100 percent of the time.

The tools work by offering a probability score that they are correct in their assumption.

Facial-recognition tools are trained on huge datasets of hundreds of thousands of images.

But there is concern that many of these datasets are not sufficiently diverse to enable the algorithms to learn to correctly identify non-white faces.

Clients of Rekognition include a company that provides tools for US law enforcement, a genealogy service and a Japanese newspaper, according to the Amazon Web Services website.

How armed leftwing and rightwing groups united against racism

A far-right group’s racist flyers led to dialogue among pro-gun groups in the Pacific north-west. But their alliance may be fragile

Jason Wilson in Portland, Oregon

@jason_a_w

Sun 3 Feb 2019 06.00 EST
PSJBGCG and other anti-racist groups collected the flyers and dumped them on the doorsteps of Patriot Front members and a local tattoo shop with far-right sympathies. As they did so, TPW posted a surprising and supportive message to its Facebook page.

It read: “ATTENTION PATRIOT FRONT!!! III% is coming for you. Apparently you missed the part about WE WILL DEFEND OUR COMMUNITIES.”

The message also said: “Racists like you deserve no platform. You disgrace the word patriot.”

The TPW leader, Matt Marshall, said the post attracted angry comments and threats from white nationalists.

“It was removed after it was reported due to some of the comments,” he said. He also claimed that the FBI called him regarding the threats and said his group was planning an updated and expanded statement which would include other white nationalist groups.

Duke Aaron, spokesman for the self-proclaimed “big tent” leftist PSJBGCG, said he had known the TPW statement was coming.

Before the statement went up, he said, he got a text from a TPW member. When he saw what it said, including the part about no-platforming fascists, he said he “was pretty happy with that. It’s a big shift.”

School district plans to hire more people of color after racial discrimination complaint

BY LEXI CORTES

FEBRUARY 01, 2019 01:49 PM, UPDATED FEBRUARY 01, 2019 03:49 PM
After High Mount School’s only black educator in May heard the superintendent say he didn’t want “black kids” in the front office when a reporter and photographer would be visiting, she filed a complaint.

Superintendent Mark Halwachs was investigated by the High Mount 116 school board president. As a result, he was required to undergo diversity training and told to start actively recruiting more people of color to the nearly all-white staff, which led to a three-year plan of action, covering 2020. He faced suspension if he didn’t.

During the investigation, Halwachs explained that what he meant to say instead of “black kids” was students in detention, who typically lined up in that area, according to a district report.

Documents related to the investigation and the plan were recently released to the Belleville News-Democrat through a public records request.

Debra Wolf, the board president who investigated the complaint, described Halwachs’ comment as regrettable, but “inadvertent and unintentional” in her report to the board.

“Mr. Halwachs said that his intent was to avoid having students who were serving detention being photographed, as it would send the wrong message about High Mount students,” Wolf’s report stated. “He said, ‘We have great kids.’”

Neither Halwachs nor the school board members responded to a request for further comment about the results of the investigation.

On average in the last five years, black students comprised about one-third of High Mount School’s enrollment. Wolf acknowledged in her report that the school staff doesn’t reflect that diversity.

In the five months since the investigation, school board meeting minutes show the district has hired eight new employees — mostly teachers’ aides. Halwachs said three of the new classroom aides are black.

School social worker Yvette Hicks was the employee who filed the complaint against Halwachs in May, stating that he didn’t want black children photographed for a BND article that featured High Mount’s school resource officer.

Hicks died unexpectedly last year from a stroke before the investigation was discussed publicly at a special school board meeting in August.

Wolf, the board president, read a prepared statement at that meeting, which was provided to the BND.

“During my last conversation with Ms. Hicks, she told me that she saw this discrimination issue as a school- and community-wide issue, not just with Mr. Halwachs and that her wishes were to have the entire staff at HMS take diversity and sensitivity training to understand how to deal with our student demographics,” Wolf wrote in the statement. “... She further stated that she wanted to see more minority staff hired at HMS.”

Jason Caraway, the attorney who represented Hicks, couldn’t be reached for comment.

After going through training titled “culturally relevant teaching” in October, Halwachs wrote in a message to the board that he planned to apologize to the staff for the comment. He characterized it as culturally insensitive.
Along with that message, Halwachs submitted the three-year plan for the district, according to documents provided to the BND. He said that it had been looked over by an “equity committee” made up of administrators, teachers and aides.

Among the stated goals are to improve the existing staff’s “cultural awareness” and to hire more people of color to classroom, administrative and staff positions.

The single-school district has about 450 students and 28 teachers on average. Those teachers are almost all white women now. There are two administrators: a superintendent and a principal, who are both white men.

“High Mount values diversity and inclusion,” Halwachs wrote in the message to the board. “I and my staff believe that the myriad of ways in which we differ offers a richness that enhances our school. With actions and words, we are taking proactive, daily behaviors to make each person feel welcome and empowered.”

High Mount isn’t the only school district lacking people of color.

About a quarter of the districts in the metro-east had only white teachers last year, according to the latest state data, which is down from 2017, when there had been even more districts with all-white teaching staffs.

Matteo Salvini mocks move to tackle racism in Italian football

Interior minister says officials have ‘Richter scale for booing’ after threat to halt matches

Angela Giuffrida in Rome
Thu 31 Jan 2019 12.22 GMT
Under the new guidelines, matches will be paused after the first warning and players will converge in the middle of the pitch. Upon a second warning, players will return to the changing rooms and a security official will then decide whether to call off the game.

The FIGC’s president, Gabriele Gravina, said the move “simplified procedures by removing responsibility from the referee”. Procedures previously required the referee to briefly stop a match if racist chants were heard and to request a public announcement asking fans to stop.

Fans hold up photos of Koulibaly and an anti-racism banner at Napoli’s next match after Inter. Photograph: Cesare Abbate/AP

But Salvini disparaged the move, saying: “Now we have a Richter scale for booing. Come on, don’t make us laugh.”

How the founder of Black History Month rebutted white racism in a forgotten manuscript

Carter G. Woodson’s unpublished work was discovered in 2005 by a Howard University history professor
Maybe don’t be a white supremacist then

Conservatives hate the market when it works against the entrenched, predominantly white power structure, part eight million in a series.

““The growing concentration of intolerant white voters in the GOP, on the other hand, has created a party which appears less and less committed to the democratic project.”

Know your terms:

✓ Ideas that assert the superiority of western white cisgender culture are “edgy,” “radical” or “heterodox.”

✓ Ideas that refute white superiority and/or assert equal treatment for other races, sexualities, cultures or experiences are “politically correct.”

Ripping apart families like this won’t change the fact that America is going to be a majority minority country very soon.

Stop destroying families to try and restore a white America. It’s not going to happen.

Only question is how many lives are destroyed before we accept this.

Two white supremacists, enjoying a moment in the White House.

An essential part of maintaining white male privilege is for white men to remain convinced – and try to convince others – that they have it just as hard as everybody else.

Trump is compromised by Putin and has spent two years using all levels of the US government to spread his special brand of white nationalist fascism and dictators are emboldened around the world but at least we can say Merry Christmas again.
As a Jewish, East-coast, liberal elitist I’d like to break with my comrades and state that I am firmly against the War on Christmas because trying to get a gallon of milk on Christmas Day in a snowstorm is invaluable training for the Apocalypse.

Re has to be an uncomfortable element in the discourse for change. Whether it's the LGBT movement, or women's issue, race, it doesn't matter. People have to be made to feel uncomfortable. And especially white people, because we're not.

still have no clue what being born white means. ... Yes, being born white, you have advantages that are systemically urally, psychologically there. And they've been built up and sted for hundreds of years. But many people can't look at it difficult. It can't be something that is on their plate on a daily basis. People want to hold their position.

Diverse faces of the Tarrant County Republican Party include, from left: Chaplain Rich Stoglin, Andy Nguyen, Shahid Shafi and Trasa Robertson Cobern. SPECIAL
So the Tarrant County Republican Party already had an uphill battle when it comes to appealing to people of color — even before a faction of the group forced a failed but embarrassing Jan. 10 vote on whether to oust Vice Chairman Shahid Shafi for being Muslim.

Yet, Shafi is still on board, as is Andy Nguyen, a former Tarrant county commissioner whose family escaped Vietnam when he was 15. And there’s a quiet but furious effort underway at the Tarrant County GOP to diversify the ranks and promote the diversity already there.

Chaplain Rich Stoglin, president of the majority African-American Frederick Douglass Republicans of Tarrant County — founded by area African-American icon Reby Cary — argues that the face of the Tarrant County Republican Party is already more diverse than it gets credit for, though regrettably the party doesn’t officially track minority engagement. Stoglin is aiding outreach efforts and pushing for more precise tracking of minorities.

You can tell by talking with her that Trasa Robertson Cobern, who leads the party’s 25-member Outreach Committee, is on it. She says the committee’s makeup is remarkably comparable to the county’s demographics: The committee, she says, is about 15 percent African-American, 25 percent Hispanic, 5 percent Asian, 45 percent white and 10 percent first-generation immigrant.

Orange County Schools admits to 'racial intolerance,' passes equity policy

By Joel Brown

HILLSBOROUGH, N.C. (WTVD) -- In a surprising, last-minute turn, Orange County school members voted unanimously Monday night in favor of the school system's first-ever racial equity policy, which in its first line acknowledges "persistent racial intolerance, inequities and academic disparities in Orange County schools.

Former board chairman Dr. Stephen Halkiotis arrived at the meeting opposed to the measure. He expressed concern about "the district" admitting to a history of racial disparities. He felt the blame should be acknowledged by society in general.

"I don't agree with the word district, because I think it puts us on shaky legal ground," Halkiotis said.

In a surprising, unanimous vote, the Orange County School Board has approved a district racial equity policy which acknowledges “persistent racial intolerance, inequities and academic disparities” with its school system.

But then came the wave of public support for the policy which is aimed at closing the achievement gap between white and non-white students by reducing suspensions, making schools more responsive to alternative learning styles and hiring more teachers who look like their diverse student bodies.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (WVIR) - People often have a tough time discussing race and equality but on Monday, minority activist students at the University of Virginia opened up to get a dialogue going on grounds.

In celebration of Martin Luther King Junior Day, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy hosted ‘MLK Day Batten Hour: Racial Equality’.

The event held a discussion on racial equality at UVA and was led by representatives from UVA’s Black Student Alliance (BSA) and Latinx Student Alliance (LSA).
New Data on Black Mismatch and Failure at UVa

May 22, 2016

The University of Virginia’s “Finals Weekend” — what other schools call graduation — is upon us. Not far behind, no doubt, will be the annual accolades such as the Journal of Blacks in Higher Education’s report that “The University of Virginia consistently posts the highest Black student graduation rate of any state-operated university in the country.” And this has been true “over the past 20 years.”

There is a dark side to this accomplishment. Last June, for example, the African American graduation rate was 80.3% — as usual, the highest in the country among public institutions — but no one seemed to notice that the corresponding 19.7% rate at which blacks failed to graduate in four years was twice as high as the rate for Asians (9.5%) and whites (10.9%).

Thus, according to UVa’s Institutional Assessment data, of the 218 blacks who entered in 2011, 43 of them did not graduate in 2015. The six-year graduation rates for the 250 blacks entering in 2009 were better (88.8%), but the rate at which they failed to graduate (11.2%) remained more than twice as high as the rate for whites (5.4%).

These most recent numbers are not unique. In fact, they are a bit better than numbers from the previous decade. UVa’s admissions data show that 3,048 blacks enrolled at UVa from the fall of 2000 through 2010, and its graduation rate data reveal that 789 of them, 25.8%, did not receive a degree after four years. 411 of the 2,844 who entered through the fall of 2009, 14.5%, did not receive degrees after six years.

The fact that blacks fail to graduate at twice the rate of whites and Asians at UVa even though it boasts the highest black graduation rate of any public university strongly suggests the presence and effect of “mismatch” that Richard Sander and others have documented — that any group admitted to selective institutions with much lower academic qualifications than their peers will cluster at the bottom of their classes and sustain higher failure rates.

The fact that UVa each year admits a much higher proportion of black applicants than Asians and whites indicates that it is indeed lowering the admissions bar for blacks. In the twelve classes entering from the fall of 2000 through 2011 (to mirror the four-year graduation rates discussed above), an average 33.9% of white applicants were offered admission, but for blacks the offer rate was 54.3%. In the most recent data available, which I discussed here, UVa offered early admission to 29.7% of the white applicants to the class of 2020 and 42.5% of the blacks.

It is theoretically conceivable — but highly unlikely — that there is a non-discriminatory explanation for the racial preference revealed by these admission proportions. But UVa, like most (perhaps all?) similar institutions, makes it impossible to analyze the nature and degree of racial preference it offers by refusing to publish SAT scores and other academic qualification data by race, even though it clearly has the data. Similarly, it publishes student GPA by gender but not by race. And, as I observed on Minding The Campus a few months ago, “it will be a freezing day in July in Charlottesville before UVa voluntarily releases test scores, etc., by race.”
my Delegate in the Virginia General Assembly, who is interested in this issue and who forwarded my piece with questions to the University’s government relations office. Since Del. Landes is Chairman of the House of Delegates Education Committee and Vice Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, his queries tend to be answered promptly.

Laura Fornash, Executive Assistant to the President for State Governmental relations (and former Virginia Secretary of Education), sent the math plus verbal results, by race, for the students admitted to the class entering next fall, along with the observation that not all students take the SAT and that UVa’s racial range is not surprising given the results nationally. And indeed the results are not surprising:

There is not, of course, a perfect correlation between SAT scores and graduation rates, but those scores are a significant component and indicator of academic qualifications, and there is compelling evidence that raising academic requirements raises the probability of graduation.

Is CPD using racial profiling to catch Divvy thieves?

Advocates say yes—and that they have the stats to prove it.

by John Greenfield

January 28, 2019
On the evening of August 18 last year, Eboni Senai Hawkins, cofounder of Chicago's chapter of the black bicycle group Red Bike and Green, witnessed Joshua Thomas, a 22-year-old African-American, being stopped by police while riding a Divvy bike-share cycle on the sidewalk near Chicago Avenue and Rush Street. The officers handcuffed and frisked Thomas, called in the serial number on the baby-blue bike, and discovered it was stolen. They arrested Thomas, who was later sentenced to two days in jail.

During the height of that summer's Divvy theft crisis, Senai Hawkins argued that police were targeting young black men for sidewalk-riding tickets as a strategy to recover hot bikes. She noted that people of all races pedal on sidewalks downtown, where hectic multilane streets put cyclists at risk, but she asserted that white sidewalk riders are rarely ticketed, let alone handcuffed and searched. "In no way is it OK for the Chicago police to enforce [a crackdown due to] the fact that Divvy has a technology issue."

Soon afterward I spoke with black Old Town resident Hakeem Appling, 24, who was also riding a Divvy on the sidewalk near Chicago and Rush on July 18 when he was detained, cuffed, frisked, ticketed, and arrested for possession of a stolen bike. Appling argued that his skin color was a factor in the stop. "That's harassment."

Catrina Hampton, 23, a vehicle transporter for Hertz, was yet another African-American who was ticketed for sidewalk biking on a Divvy near Chicago and Rush on August 9. She said she was handcuffed and searched, but the police didn't call in the number on her Divvy.
All told, 23 of the 30 adults ticketed for sidewalk riding in the two downtown police districts during July and August of last year were African-American, including 20 black men, according to records the city provided earlier this month. That's about 77 percent of the ticket recipients in a city that's roughly a third African-American.

Meanwhile only five non-Hispanic whites were ticketed. That's approximately 17 percent of recipients, although whites also make up about a third of the city. (Of the other two people ticketed, one was Asian, while the other had no race listed on his ticket.)

Romanian immigrant Samuel Baltes, 21, was one of only two white men ticketed. On July 20, Baltes was biking down the sidewalk of Chicago near Rush on his old beater while making food deliveries for Postmates. Suddenly a squad car whipped around the corner to block his path. He said the officers wrote him a $50 ticket but he wasn't cuffed or frisked.

Upward of 500 Divvies went missing last summer due to the shortsighted decision to remove a key piece of security hardware from their docks, according to city e-mails the Reader obtained in September. Soon afterward Divvy sped up the pace of reinstallation, wrapping up by the end of November, and, thankfully, the bike-share problem seems to be behind us.

Arrests for possession of stolen Divvies peaked in July and August, when more than 120 adults were charged citywide, according to the anonymous crime blog CWB Chicago. Of the 30 people ticketed for sidewalk riding downtown in those months, eight were arrested for possession of stolen bikes—all of them African-Americans on Divvies.
The CPD says it has used sidewalk biking enforcement to recover stolen cycles.

But after learning that 23 out of those 30 people were African-American, Senai Hawkins and other black bike advocates say the data confirms their suspicions: police have been unfairly singling out African-Americans who cycle downtown for tickets. "How else would you interpret it?" she asked.

David Griggs, who leads the monthly South Side Critical Mass bike rides, noted that the Chicago Tribune found that officers have written exponentially higher numbers of sidewalk-riding citations in some communities of color. Last summer a CPD representative admitted that this was due to bike enforcement being used as a pretext for searches in high-crime areas.

After seeing the downtown ticketing numbers, Griggs said, "It's disheartening to know police are targeting black riders wherever they may ride, not just on the south and west sides."

However, after I reported on the Appling and Thomas cases on Streetsblog last summer, CWB Chicago ran a post arguing that racial bias wasn't a factor in those stops. It pointed out that the area around the Chicago Avenue Red Line station is designated as a crime hot spot by the CPD, so it has a 24/7 police presence.

A CPD representative confirmed this area is heavily policed due to numerous assault cases last year. Most recently, on December 9, a group of teens attacked three bystanders on the el platform, fracturing one man's eye socket. Eight of the 30 ticketing incidents, including half of the arrests, occurred within this zone. CWB also noted that Appling and Thomas had each been arrested several times in the area for...

In the Spotlight: How Racism Affects the Healthcare Workforce

Based on 2015 statistics of medical school graduates, an estimated 6% identified as black or African American, and 5% identified as Latina, Latino, or Hispanic. These groups each represent only 4% of active physicians and have previously reported high rates of discrimination in their medical careers. Such experiences have been linked with lower career satisfaction, higher job turnover, feelings of being unwelcome within their institutions, and contemplation of leaving the medical profession.

Although discrimination or harassment has been reported by nearly 60% of trainees in medicine, trainees of color are unlikely to feel comfortable speaking up in fear of further disproportionate treatment or exclusion.

Steve King’s Government Website Still Links To White Nationalist Blog

Earlier this month the racist Iowa congressman claimed to reject the “evil ideology” of white supremacy.

By Christopher Mathias

01/29/2019 11:35 AM ET  Updated 10 hours ago
Weeks after claiming to denounce racism and bigotry, Rep. Steve King (R-Iowa) is still using his official government website to direct his constituents to a white nationalist blog that regularly publishes the work of vile racists, anti-Semites, and Nazi sympathizers, HuffPost has found.

The top of King’s house.gov website currently features a YouTube video of King, in a Jan. 15 speech on the floor of the House of Representatives, claiming to reject the “evil ideology” of white supremacy. “That ideology never shows up in my head,” he tells his congressional colleagues, who were voting on a resolution condemning racist comments King made this month to The New York Times.

Yet just beneath King’s YouTube video is a link to “Illegal Immigrant Stories,” a section of King’s website he’s devoted to cherry-picked news articles falsely portraying Latinos as prone to committing crimes. Many of the news clips King cites are from disreputable far-right propaganda outlets like Breitbart, The Daily Caller, WorldNetDaily, and The Gateway Pundit. One of the news clips King uses is from the patently white nationalist website VDare.com.

VDare is a hate site named after Virginia Dare, said to be the first white baby born in the “New World.” It has routinely featured the writing of eugenicists, anti-Semites and Nazi sympathizers, including prominent white supremacists Richard Spencer, Kevin MacDonald, Sam Francis and Jared Taylor.

Sophie Turner has spoken out against a racist meme featuring her Game of Thrones character Sansa Stark. The 22-year-old actor took to Twitter on Saturday to denounce a now unavailable tweet advocating for “Purity In Race and Culture” with a photo of Sansa.

“White people are the product of 50,000 years of evolution. Do not destroy our genetic legacy by race mixing,” the meme read. “Do it right! Date and marry white!”

Turner did not mince words in her response to the image. “Ew,” she wrote. “Please don’t use me to promote racism.”

It would appear, she pays attention to memes of the show.

Local author promotes diversity in children's book

Published on: January 28, 2019 | Last Updated: January 28, 2019 11:46 AM EST
A local author has released a children’s book, Little Tommy’s Big Beliefs, celebrating cultural diversity and promoting acceptance.

Airdrie-based Katie Mackrory originally wrote the book for a class project while she was studying social work at the University of Calgary in 2014.

“It was based on the idea that you can do little things, and it still makes a big difference,” said Mackrory.

In the story, Tommy sees people wearing hijabs, kippahs, and crosses, and his mom teaches him the value of learning about others’ beliefs.

“He learns that he can still show people love, kindness, and respect even if they have different beliefs from his own,” she said.

“The message is that even if you don’t know someone, you can still smile and make friends that way. That little act makes a huge difference in the world.”

Civil rights groups warn that Texas voter citizenship check could violate federal law

Thirteen groups issued the warning, and some are considering suing the state.

The state of Texas' announcement that it was flagging tens of thousands of registered voters for citizenship checks was met with dismay among civil rights attorneys and voting rights advocates, who said it echoed efforts around the country to remove eligible voters from the rolls.

Now, several prominent civil rights groups are warning that following the state's recommended procedure for verifying those voters' citizenship could violate federal law.

Lawyers with 13 organizations — including the Texas Civil Rights Project, the ACLU of Texas, the League of Women Voters of Texas and the NAACP Legal Defense Fund — are demanding that the state rescind an advisory sent to local election officials regarding the individuals whose citizenship status the state says the counties should consider checking. In a letter sent Monday, the groups requested a response by Jan. 30, claiming that the state's data was flawed and demanding more information about the methodology it used.

Some of the groups are considering litigation against the state, said Beth Stevens, voting rights legal director for the Texas Civil Rights Project.
The letter comes three days after the Texas secretary of state’s office announced it would send local election officials a list of 95,000 registered voters who had provided the Texas Department of Safety some form of documentation, such as a green card or a work visa, that showed they were not citizens when they were obtaining driver’s licenses or an ID cards.

“Using such a data set to review the current citizenship status of anyone is inherently flawed because it fails to account for individuals who became naturalized citizens and registered to vote at any point after having obtained their driver license or personal identification card,” the lawyers wrote.

The FDNY’s diversity monitor has cost the city $23 million in 7 years

By Susan Edelman

January 26, 2019  |  11:35pm  |  Updated
Mark S. Cohen’s yearly tab has risen from $1.6 million in 2012 to $4.9 million in 2018, bringing his total so far to $22,923,840.36, records reviewed by The Post show.

It’s a steady — and lucrative — gig.

Brooklyn federal judge Nicholas Garaufis appointed Cohen, a former white-collar prosecutor, after a 2007 lawsuit by the Vulcan Society of black firefighters and the US Justice Department charged the FDNY discriminated against minorities.

Ex-Mayor Mike Bloomberg fought the case for years, but Mayor Bill de Blasio, after taking office in 2014, agreed to settle for a massive $98 million.

Cohen continued to monitor anti-bias reforms under the settlement.

While Bloomberg’s top lawyer Michael Cardozo quickly griped that Cohen was charging more than $300,000 in each of his bi-monthly bills as “a great deal of wastefulness,” de Blasio’s top lawyer, Zachary Carter, never raised a stink — until now.

After getting Cohen’s last two bills totaling a $1.9 million for four months — his biggest tabs ever — the city Law Department sent a Jan. 16 letter to Garaufis, asking him to review the “dramatically” higher costs.

Garaufis then asked Cohen for a written explanation. On Thursday, Cohen filed an answer, citing various efforts to evaluate and improve the FDNY’s recruitment of black and Hispanic firefighters.
On Friday, Garaufis ordered the city to pay up. And the city lawyers promptly backed down, even praising Cohen’s service.

“In cooperation with the monitor, the fire department has made substantial progress in implementing court-ordered reforms that have led to the recruitment and retention of a historically diverse workforce,” said a Law Department spokesman.

Of nearly 8,600 FDNY firefighters, 25 percent are now minorities, including 87 women, spokesman Jim Long said.

Cohen charges up to $650 an hour for his Manhattan firm’s work.

In addition to the total $22.9 million in his firm’s fees and expenses, Cohen has billed for consultants to help on equal employment matters, firefighter exam development, and medical testing, officials said.

The consultants have added at least $1.5 million in costs since 2012.

Cohen also bills for “claims administrators” to handle phone calls and emails from claimants in the lawsuit — even though it has long settled.

“At this point, they continue to respond to calls and emails from claimants though the volume is far lower,” the city spokesman said.

Garaufis appointed Cohen to serve for a decade, so the bimonthly billing can continue another three years.

In his letter last week, Cohen vowed to fulfill his role “as efficiently as possible.” He also said he “expects to reduce, rather than increase” the time spent on areas that boosted the latest billing.

Minneapolis wants to tie funding of neighborhood groups to their diversity

By MIGUEL OTÁROLA, STAR TRIBUNE
January 27, 2019 - 8:30 PM

Neighborhood associations in Minneapolis could lose their funding if their leadership doesn’t include enough people of color and renters under changes proposed by the city.

The 70 city-funded neighborhood associations have been a key part of Minneapolis’ civic life for decades, maintaining paid staffs, providing housing assistance, organizing local cleanups and art events, running drug-prevention campaigns and more. For years, the city has looked to diversify their boards, which have been disproportionately made up of white homeowners.
The future of the groups is now the focus of an initiative called Neighborhoods 2020, which would bring them more firmly under City Hall control. The tax district that funneled millions of dollars to the associations is set to expire at the end of this year — with $4.1 million earmarked for 2019 and more for 2020 — and the city says the groups need to change if they want continued city funding.

“We really want … to make sure that any resident of Minneapolis is able to walk into a neighborhood organization and be able to participate,” David Rubedor, the director of the city’s Neighborhoods and Community Relations department, said last week. “We want our neighborhood organizations … to really reflect the diversity of their community. Not only in the programming and the activities that they do, but also in their leadership.”

While neighborhood boards are reaching age, income and gender benchmarks, the number of people of color and renters who participate still lags, according to city data. The city hit only 33 percent of its “owner vs. renter” and 50 percent of its “people of color” goals in 2018, a small increase from five years ago.

The city’s population, meanwhile, has become more diverse since most neighborhoods began to receive city funding in the early 1990s. More than half of all housing is renter-occupied, and white residents now make up about 60 percent of the city as opposed to about 78 percent in 1990.

White people concern trolling Hispanics/Asians to “assimilate and learn English” for their own good is the softer side of Wall ‘n’ Ban xenophobia, only it’s as likely to come from left as right. I spoke fluent Chinese before I was pushed by school into English; never got it back.

Dear Tom Brokaw,

"Hispanics" are learning English just fine. The problem is that white people are doing a crappy job of assimilating into the increasing diversity of the country. The problem isn't Hispanic assimilation. It is white racism.

African-American Students Lagging Far Behind

A new analysis provides a sobering gut-check on the achievement gap in U.S. schools.

By Lauren Camera, Education Reporter  Dec. 11, 2015

On the 2015 National Assessment of Educational Progress, only 18 percent of African-American fourth-graders were proficient in reading and only 19 percent scored as proficient in math, according to an analysis by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Foundation released Friday. The eighth-grade numbers were even worse, with only 16 percent of African-American students proficient in reading and 13 percent proficient in math.

Province announces community grants aimed at combatting racism

BY POSTMEDIA NEWS
ORIGINALLY PUBLISHED: JAN 26, 2019
The Alberta government has announced 33 recipients of community grants aimed at fighting racial discrimination.

Organizations that will receive the funding include the Institute for the Advancement of Aboriginal Women and the non-profit group Soccer Without Boundaries, which delivers multicultural outreach programs.

Soccer Without Boundaries executive director Jean Claude Munyezamu said the program connects new Canadians to the community “through the universal language of sport.”

“With people from over 30 countries, including refugee, immigrant and Indigenous kids, this grant will help minority families to feel that they belong,” the Calgarian said in a news release.

Marggo Pariseau, vice-president of the Institute for the Advancement of Aboriginal Women, said the organization has been working with Indigenous people for more than two decades to address discrimination.

More than $600,000 in provincial grants is being distributed through a community anti-racism funding stream and through an Indigenous anti-racism funding stream.

The provincial government said eligible organizations can apply for matching grants of as much as $25,000 for a range of projects, including initiatives focused on training and education, development of informational resources, and support services.
The anti-racism community grant program received $2 million in funding in the 2018-19 Alberta budget. The application deadline for the next round of grants is March 1.

The establishment of the community anti-racism grants program was the result of consultations with Albertans who experience racism.

Education Minister David Eggen said during those consultations, he heard “loud and clear that the most effective work happens at the community level.”

The province has said it will also establish an anti-racism advisory council.

BENICIA (KPIX 5) Two Vallejo sisters, in their nineties, share their firsthand memories of a dark chapter in world history so that the next generation may know the truth of the past.

Ninety-two-year-old Debbie Sessler and 90-year-old Beppy Leaver share how they survived the Holocaust.
The pair ended up in the hospital barracks, escaping a final death march from Auschwitz.

“The Germans left, the Nazis all left, they took the healthy people with them,” Sessler said.

But the two women were spared because they were sick.

“We were liberated by the Russians. Boy were we happy to see them!” exclaimed Sessler.

But the two women were spared because they were sick.

Young children aren't always egalitarian

Today on this solemn occasion, we remember the gross misuse of #HolocaustMemorialDay as means to guilt trip Europeans into being unable to assert their ethnic and racial interests, uniquely among all peoples on earth. We remember the victims of this propaganda and their families.

On this #HolocaustRemembranceDay, remember that if you're Jewish you can bring multi-billion dollar lawsuits against foreign nations in US federal court for actions that allegedly occurred in those nations b/c the elementary legal principle of jurisdiction doesn't apply to Jews.

To portray the shutdown negatively, the media is running stories about people dying in national parks. The connotation is that the shutdown is partially to blame for the deaths, but that’s not true. Moreover, deaths during the shutdown are actually below the average.
